

eMazzanti Technologies Boosts Retail Fashion Industry Expertise

New York City area IT consultant hires experienced customer advocate to help fashion retailers accelerate growth with technology

Hoboken, New Jersey -- (Vocus) December 30, 2014 — eMazzanti Technologies, a NYC area IT consultant and MSP, announces the hiring of Megan Woolley to the position of Account Executive. Ms. Woolley will work directly with customers to grow their retail business with technology, focusing on helping retailers with important IT concerns, such as PCI compliance and implementing mobile POS systems.

Woolley comes to eMazzanti Technologies with POS technology experience at one of the nation's best known fashion retailers. A merchandising graduate of Florida State University, Megan's passion for fashion and technology experience in a retail fashion environment will strengthen eMazzanti's ability to provide the highest quality IT consulting and services to the retail industry segment.

"eMazzanti has a clear vision and a proven track record of helping retailers grow their revenues with technology," stated Ms. Woolley. "I am excited to be involved with an IT firm that is moving the retail industry forward with innovative POS and network solutions."

In her previous employment at Pandora Jewelry, Ms. Woolley served as a POS systems project coordinator and sales associate POS trainer, excelling at building rapport and confidence with end users. After obtaining her merchandising degree she worked with Nordstrom and a well-known fashion designer.
